

I really feel that in a free market economy, that any competition is not only healthy, but necessary for innovation and the reaching of maximum efficiency. For the NAB to feel it is necessary to limit another the reach of another modality only shows the industries unwillingness to adapt to the changing climate in technological modalities. I live in the Atlanta area and am still waiting for traffic and weather information. This should not be an issue, but be embrace as an opportunity for technology to move forward
Thank you,

Gilbert K Taylor